

NOT A HAWKER OR A PEDDLER

JUSTICE STADTMILLER FINDS JACOBSON NOT GUILTY OF VIOLATING CITY ORDIN-ANCE IN DELIVERING BREAD TO MER-CHANTS.

Justice Stadtmiller gave a written decision yesterday in the case of the people vs. Wm. Jacobson, who is accused of violating the terms of a city ordinance relative to peddling. He found Jacobson not guilty. The facts were that Jacobson, the respondent, was employed by the Cable-Draper Baking company of Detroit. His duties consisted of bringing bread here daily, Sundays excepted, in a truck. The testimony showed that he sold in wholesale lots only to merchants. Ordinance No. 26 was passed by the city of Ypsilanti in 1882 and relates to hawkers and peddlers.

Justice Stadtmiller in his opinion said: "The question under the above ordinance for decision is whether or not respondent is a hawker or peddler within the meaning of the ordinance and the charter. If it is found that he is a hawker and a peddler then he is guilty under numerous Michigan supreme court decisions. It is generally held that a person who goes about from place to place selling goods which he carries to retail dealers in such goods is not a peddler. State vs. Fetterer, 65 Conn. 287. The courts have held that an agent for an oil company selling to customers from his wagon is not a peddler; also that one who is an agent of a wholesaler and delivers goods previously ordered and sells from his own wagon to retailers more goods than were previously ordered by the retailer is not a peddler. The testimony in this case shows that the respondent sold only in wholesale lots to retail merchants and therefore is not a hawker or peddler."

JUDGE DISMISSES ORLANDO JURY

UNABLE TO REACH VERDICT —CASE PUT OVER TILL OCTOBER TERM.

Tuesday afternoon Judge Sample dismissed the jury in the Orlando murder case, as it was impossible for them to reach a verdict. Orlando was remanded to the county jail to await trial at the October session.

From the first the jury was hopelessly deadlocked, seven standing for murder in the first degree and five standing out for acquittal. The jury was charged that they could bring in one of two verdicts—murder in the first degree or not guilty. Several of the jurors said that a verdict might have been reached had it been possible to limit the sentence.

This is the second trial for Orlando. The first was thrown out because one of the jurors discussed the case prior to being selected as a juror. Five panels were exhausted before the jury in the last trial was selected. It is understood that action will be taken against this jurymen.

SAM RICHARDSON SAYS GUILTY, FINED $15.00

Sam Richardson, accused of disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty Wednesday to the charge before Justice Stadtmiller. He was arrested by Chief Connors after a hard run and later locked up in the city jail.

On recommendation of City Attorney Kirk Richardson was allowed to go upon the payment of a fine of $15.

NEW HOTEL STARTED.

Monday work started on the excavation for the new hotel to be located at the corner of Washington and Pearl streets. As soon as this part of the work is completed the wall will be laid and the building proper will be started. It is planned to have the formal opening on New Year's day.

CATHOLIC WOMAN'S CLUB HOLD A MOTHER'S DAY

It was Mothers' and Daughters' day at the Catholic Woman's club Thursday afternoon in St. John's clubhouse. The hostesses were Miss Florence Kelly, Mr. Alec Nulan and Mrs. Roy Whiting. The daughters enjoyed a series of games, after which lemon ice and wafers were served.

At the business meeting it was decided to have a pot luck supper following the next meeting, May 27, which will be the final meeting of the club until fall. The families will all partake in the supper.

FINAL MEETING OF THE FACULTY DAMES

The final meeting of the faculty dames was held at the home of Mrs. F. R. Gorton Tuesday afternoon. She was assisted by Mrs. W. H. Sherzer, Mrs. P. R. Cleary and Mrs. B. L. D'Ooge.

Officers to serve next year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. B. L. D'Ooge; vice-president, Mrs. J. M. Hoyer; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. Irion.

1600 IN PAGEANT ON MEMORIAL DAY

Deyo S. Leland and his assistants, Miss Mabel Eichhorn and Miss Phoebe Sherman, are working hard on the Memorial day pageant to be given Tuesday, May 30, at 3 p. m.

Mr. Leland stated Wednesday that there would be 1,600 persons in the pageant and that costumes for 1,200 have already been made.

The Memorial day program, under the auspices of the G. A. R. and allied patriotic organizations, will be given the same day before the pageant.

Rev. Harvey C. Colburn, pastor of the Congregational church, will give the Memorial day address.

MUSIC RECITAL AT THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

The music pupils of Miss Veva Thorne, Mrs. Charles Breining, Miss Abba Owen, Mrs. Lorinda Clifford and Miss Caroline Towner gave a recital in the Central high school auditorium Friday evening. Those taking part were: Maxwell Ament, Frederick Weinmann, Muri Youngs, Nancy Quirk, Ernestine Goodwin, Marjorie Gross, Mary Boutell, Helen Knowles, Martin Newman, Margaret Morrison, Dorothy Baker, Joe White, Blanche Parrish, Viola Greenman, Ruth Forche, Carol Zink, Eleanor Maege, Marion Gooding, Francis Lister and Mrs. G. L. Hand. The last number was a violin ensemble by all the violin pupils of Miss Abba Owen.

AUXILIARY IN MEETING LAST FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The Signal Corps Auxiliary met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Lidke, of East Forest avenue. There was a large number present and one new member added. It is decided to have all mothers of the signal corps men join the organization. Arrangements were made to attend the Baptist church Memorial Sunday in a body. A bake sale on the market opening day was decided on. A quilt, the joint property of the American Legion Auxiliary and the Signal Corps Auxiliary, having been unclaimed following the Christmas fair, the two societies have decided at their regular meetings to present same to Rev. C. C. Krum. Light refreshments were served. The next meeting, June 9, will be with Mrs. Herbert W. Hinds, 419 East Milhigan avenue.

DELTA SIGMA EPSILON HAVE MOTHER'S DAY

The Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority planned and carried out successfully a Mothers' day. The mothers were invited to spend the week-end with members of this sorority. A large number of the out-of-town mothers responded.

Miss Chloe Todd entertained the mothers Saturday afternoon at a tea. In the evening they were entertained at the Masonic temple, where a four-course dinner was served by the Eastern Stars, followed by a program. Sunday morning they attended St. Luke's Episcopal church. They were then taken to Ann Arbor for dinner, after which they departed for their homes.

Mrs. Dick Elliott is able to be out again after a week's illness.

KIWANIS HEAR DETROIT SPEAKER

PICTURES TAKEN WHEN KIWANIS ENTERTAINED
RURAL TEACHERS TO BE
AUDITORIUM MAY 25.

Speaking Wednesday at the noon-day meeting of the Kiwanis club, Lee A. White, of the Detroit News, said:

"We have to go back a long way to get to fundamentals. We are social animals which implies obligations. Most of us only do lip service. Since 1914 it has been natural to decay the doctrine of Prussianism. Many of us practice Prussianism in our attitude to others. Many of us feel now that we used Prussian tactics in selling Liberty bonds. The eighteenth amendment to the constitution is the one we know by number. It is the commonest joke in the United States today. It is the object of ridicule and satire from editors, cartoonists, actors and many others. It is one thing to make satire, but another to vote for a law and then try to beat it. How many of us make just tax returns. There is too much disrespect for law. The class the press with the schools and church, but on the whole it is accurate. Lies and gossip thrive best where there are no newspapers. The U. S. and Red Cross always start a paper where there is none in cases of disasters and floods to keep people informed. Newspapers are more accurate than history. There are many fables in history that we have been taught. The cherry tree episode was coined by a preacher 30 years after the death of Washington and was pure fiction. The man who says there is nothing but crime and scandal in the newspapers better keep it to himself. It is a confession that that is what he reads. In every great metropolitan paper today there are many other articles on religion, politics and also editorials that such a reader passes up."

Prof. M. S. Pittman, of the Normal, stated that the moving pictures of the Kiwanis club taken when they entertained the rural directors and teachers would be shown next Thursday, May 25, at Pease auditorium at 7:30 p. m. It will be commencement for the eighth grade graduates of the rural schools.

It was voted to pay $1 per member to help defray the expenses of the University band to the Toronto convention in June. It was also voted to invite the Michigan Pioneer society to hold their convention here next January.

PYTHIAN SISTERS IN DISTRICT CONVENTION

About 200 Pythian Sisters met here Thursday in district convention. They were from Manchester, Monroe, Milan, Chelsea and Dundee. The supreme grand protector, Mrs. Addie Kempf, of Tipton, had charge of the meeting. Miss Eleanor McCompane favored with a violin solo, accompanied by Miss Abba Owen. Dinner was served by the M. E. Ladies' Aid society in the M. E. church. The ladies' quartet, composed of Mrs. Leon Hand, Mrs. Morris Chapin, Mrs. Roy Curtis and Mrs. S. E. Crawford, sang. Miss Valera Denton, of Milan, sang a solo.

Initiatory work was put on by the Ypsilanti past chiefs and staff. The following past grand chiefs of the Pythian Sisters were present: Mrs. Ella Jordan, Mrs. Saylse and Mrs. Crittenden, of Detroit, and Mrs. Jessie Adams, of Litchfield, the present grand chief, and Mrs. Foster, of Jackson, grand mistress of finance, and Mrs. Laura Gillette, of Ann Arbor, another grand officer.

ELLIS SENTENCED TO 30 DAYS IN COUNTY JAIL

Saturday Robert Ellis, of Ypsilanti, was sentenced by Judge Sample to serve 30 days in the county jail for bootlegging. In addition to the jail sentence he was put on probation for five years, to leave the state as soon as released from jail.

It will be remembered that Ellis and Benjamin Harris were arrested for bootlegging by Ypsilanti officers a few weeks ago and had a hearing in Justice Stadtmiller's court and were bound over to the circuit court for trial. Harris gave bail and his case will probably be disposed of this week.

GRANTED A DIVORCE.

Saturday afternoon a decree of divorce was granted to Helen Cole from her husband, Ralph Cole, by Judge Sample on the ground of non-support. Mrs. Cole was given the custody of their two-year-old daughter, the father to pay $5 per week towards the support of the child until she reaches the age of 16 years.

Rev. Father Needham is a patient at St. Joseph sanitarium.

AGED SALINE WOMAN KILLED

WAS 93 YEARS OF AGE—HAD LIVED IN SALINE NEARLY ALL HER LIFE.

To reach the ripe old age of 93 and then be killed in an accident is one of the acts of fate that is hard to explain. Such was the ending of a long and useful life of Mrs. Wealthy Pope, of Saline, last Saturday afternoon as she was taking an automobile ride with her daughter, Mrs. Beverly Davenport, and a nurse. The accident happened about three miles north of Saline and was caused by a door of the sedan in which they were riding flying open and as Mrs. Davenport, who was driving, reached to close it the car went into the ditch and turned over on its side. Mrs. Pope was thrown from the car, receiving injuries that caused her death inside an hour.

Mrs. Pope was born in New York state in 1828 and had lived until her next birthday, in August, would have been 94 years old. When a young girl she came to Saline with her parents and had resided there ever since. She was one of the oldest residents of that village, well known and highly respected.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon and burial took place in the Saline cemetery.

ARRESTED FOR AUTO THEFT NEARLY YEAR OLD

In June, 1921, Fred Buytendorf had an Oldsmobile stolen. Saturday officers were notified by officers at Flint that Ralph C. Weston had been arrested in that city in connection with the theft and was being held. Monday Deputy Sheriff Dick Elliott went to Toledo to bring Weston back for trial.

Weston was arraigned Wednesday afternoon before Justice Stadtmiller on a charge of stealing an automobile last June from Fred Buytendorf. Weston waived an examination and was bound over to the next term of circuit court. His bail was fixed at $1,000, which he was not able to furnish.

RAY BATTERY OPENS BALL SEASON SUNDAY

Sunday, May 21, the ball season will open in Ypsilanti. The last American Oil company ball team of Jackson will play the Ray Battery company team at the new Athletic park on the Belleville road, north and east of the old brewery. To reach the park you go out Grove street, following the road around till you reach the grounds.

Last season the Ray Battery team gave Ypsilanti some high-class ball. This season they are spending a lot of money on a new ball park and fans are assured of some fast ball this season. The schedule is about completed and includes some of the best professional teams in the state.

Turn out Sunday and give the boys a crowd. They deserve it for their efforts in giving Ypsilanti a ball team.

HIGH SCHOOL MUSICAL BIG HIT WITH AUDIENCE

Tuesday evening at the Wuerthe theatre crowded house greeted "The Lass of Limerick Town," given by the department of music of the Central high school directed by Mrs. A. G. Erickson.

The musicals throughout was worthy of praise, notably for those taking part but those who are responsible for its success, and the large audience showed its appreciation by the frequent applause. Space forbids us giving special mention, but we can candidly say that it was everything that could be desired in a musical comedy.

ROTARIANS HEAR MOYER ON SCHOOL ATHLETICS

Monday noon the Rotarians enjoyed a talk from Coach Moyer of the Central high school. He outlined the athletics of the school and told of the benefits derived by the boys and girls in organized play. He gave a splendid talk, which was enjoyed by the Rotarians.

John Finch, of the Normal, sang a couple of songs, "Tommy Lad," responding with an Irish song. Rotarians are always glad to have Finch on the program.

Next Monday evening the Rotarians will entertain the senior boys of the high school at the Country club.

PHOENIX LODGE ENJOYS SMOKER TUESDAY EVE

Tuesday evening Phoenix lodge held a smoker at the Masonic temple. The program consisted of musical numbers and vaudeville by Detroit artists. Bergin's orchestra furnished the music and James Breakey gave several fine piano solos. E. Smith, of Toledo, gave a humorous talk on his trip to New York.

H. E. Van de Walker was to have been the speaker of the evening but was called out of the city.

SUPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS ALENE LONSKY

One of the social functions given in honor of Miss Alene Lonsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lonsky, of Ferris' street, was a very prettily arranged surprise shower Saturday evening by the Catholic Woman's club in St. John's clubhouse. The room was decorated with spring flowers. A series of games were played, in which the following drew prizes: Mrs. J. R. Smith, Miss Mary Zwergel, Miss Alene Lonsky, Mrs. Roy Miles, Mrs. Ross Spencer and Mrs. J. H. Lonsky.

Refreshments of strawberry ice cream and home-made cakes were served, after which the guest of honor was presented with a mahogany clock.

Miss Lonsky was married Wednesday morning in St. John's church to Roy Connolly, of McClure, Ohio.

CONSERVATION LEAGUE HELD OPEN MEETING

The Child Conservation league held an open meeting Monday evening in Central school. The program consisted of a solo by Mrs. David Lawrence, a Kewpie dance by six Normal college students, a violin solo by Miss Ruth Forche, accompanied by Miss Abba Owen, and a very interesting talk by Mrs. Mallory, of Ann Arbor, who is social service director of the University hospital. She told about her social service work and the adoption of children, and said that last year she placed 100 babies in homes where they were adopted.

The next meeting of the league will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Minniss, 117 Perrin street, on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, June 5th.

ATTORNEY FILES BRIEF IN BREAD CASE MONDAY

City Attorney John P. Kirk filed a brief Monday evening in the case of the city vs. Wm. Jacobson, who is accused of selling bread here without complying with the city ordinance in first obtaining a license. The brief states that the statutes of Michigan provide for cities to license hawkers and peddlers. He contends that Jacobson in selling to stores went about from place to place, and under the ordinance he would be guilty whether he was considered a peddler or not. Several supreme court decisions were cited. The case will be decided today by Justice Stadtmiller.

AMERICAN-LEGION CLEAR $140.60 FROM PLAY

An adjourned meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held Thursday evening at the armory. Reports of the committee in charge of the musical play, "Keep Off the Grass," showed the organization had cleared $140.60 for the hospital fund. A vote of appreciation was given for all who helped in the advertising and in the play. The membership contest was closed and the leaders, the Misses Mary Boutell and Hazel Stitt, will report results at the next meeting. Several turned in money received from the small aprons sent out.

MCKENNY ELECTED TO HEAD BOARD COMMERCE

Monday the board of directors of the Board of Commerce elected Charles McKenny, president of the State Normal college, to head that organization for the ensuing year. E. G. Wiedman and Guy E. Davis were chosen as vice-presidents; P. L. Gallup, treasurer, and Ray E. Cotton, recording secretary.

The new directors are as follows: A. G. Erickson, Joseph H. Thompson, Alec Nulan, George E. Geer, R. B. Haig, Dr. E. S. George, Fred F. Bennet and Guy Davis.

CITY COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

GAVE YPSILANTI HOTEL CO.
PRIVILEGE TO CLOSE HALF OF PEARL STREET—PAV-ING BONDS SOLD.

The regular session of the city council was held Monday night, with Mayor Emory R. Beal presiding.

The Ypsilanti Hotel company asked the council for permission to close Pearl street in order that they can store material for the hotel. A counter petition was filed by several business men on Pearl street, protesting the closing of the street for the reason that it would injure their business. The council voted to close it for one way traffic only, permitting the hotel company to use half of the street. On motion of Alderman Lathers the company was required to put up a $10,000 indemnity bond. A building permit was granted to the company to erect a four-story hotel.

A request from Harry Davis for permission to install a water and air auto service on Huron street was met with objections and put over two weeks. Alderman Smith inquired what auto owners were going to do for air and gas. It is proposed not to allow them in the residential districts and now you refuse them they will have to go to the country next to get their gasoline and air.

On motion of Alderman Mat Max it was voted eight to two to give the sum of $150 to pay the expense of the band, flags and program for Memorial day. Later Alderman Lathers, who had voted yes, changed his vote to no, stating that Ann Arbor never appropriated any money for Memorial day and if they did it was only $25. The measure, however, carried, as seven votes were still in favor of the proposition.

Residents of Pearson street petitioned for paving and it was voted to have plans and costs submitted. Aldermen Lathers, Ableson and Smith stated they wanted paving that had been ordered four and six years ago done before this work was begun. These paving requests should be taken up in their regular order, it was contended. Alderman Lathers then made a motion to pave Lowell street that was ordered six years ago, he stated. It carried.

Three ballots were taken for street commissioner without any results. B. J. Fosdick received four votes; Jerry O'Brien, four, and Herbert Shepherd, one. It was voted to lay the matter over two weeks.

The rest room lease was renewed at $50 per month.

Several petitions were read signed by several hundred which were against the installing of a gasoline and oil station. The proposed station was to have been built by John J. Polzin on his premises at the corner of Adams and Cross streets. The school board has secured a temporary injunction restraining Polzin from going any further. Dr. E. S. George, a member of the board, stated that the board had offered to reimburse Polzin for any expense he had incurred to settle the matter. Polzin has a petition with several hundred names of people who are in favor of permitting him to build the station. He also spoke before the council and stated he was a heavy taxpayer and that this property was too valuable for residence purposes. The ordinance that was to prohibit the building of stations was not reported out by the committee. A hearing on the injunction is to be heard later.

Ben Burbank and Mr. Hanchett, of Detroit, spoke before the council about developing Ainsworth subdivision. They stated that it was their intention of erecting 50 dwellings, none to cost less than $4,000, on the subdivision. Judge Clyde Webster, of Detroit, it was stated, is interested financially in the proposition.

The matter of paying West Cross street was put over two weeks. Wm. Webb objected to the paving of North Washington street and the matter was laid on the table.

The Detroit Trust company was awarded the handling of $18,000 of paving bonds at 5 per cent and $103.50 premium. Other bidders were Pruden & Company, of Toledo, and Otis & Company, of Cleveland.

MRS. CLINE 94 YEARS OLD DIES WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Rebecca Jane Kline, aged 94 years, died Wednesday from general disability due to old age. She was the widow of the late David Cline, who died many years ago. She is survived by four sons, Ben and Grant, of Ypsilanti; Sam, of New Boston, and John, of Highland.

The deceased was the widow of a veteran of the Civil war drew a pension, and lived in a little house on River street with her son, Ben.

MILK AND VITAMINES

A citizen of Iceland once visited my school. I invited him to address us. He discussed foods and eating and told us, in terms more truthful than elegant, that "You American make a slop bucket of your stomach." By this he meant that we eat altogether too many different kinds of foods at the same meal. He had been accustomed to drinking whale's blubber as the main article in his diet. He therefore, was strong for fat, a needed fuel in a country of permanent ice. The Kollege Komedie girls would have advised him to "powder his shiny nose." Nature was struggling heroically to eliminate the unnecessary fat through the skin. It could be wiped off his face.

In our mild climate, with its warm, humid summers, a milk too fat and greasy imposes unnecessary burdens in elimination. Our Class A Milk has sufficient fat for health and is especially rich in proteins, minerals, vitamins. Its use, moreover, effect a saving in calomel and cosmetics.

Fashion's perennials are these—yet this year their popularity will be greater than ever. The Paris echo of Princess Mary's trousseau sounded a note of white and combination of black and white, which has had its influence in the styles of summer. DORIS MAY

IN "BOY CRAZY"

Doris May as Jackie Cameron runs a whole town crazy when she opens a haberdashery—with the accent on the dash.

Harry Myers, who became famous by his work in "A Connecticut Yankee," is operating a fashionable women's wear shop.

They are both trying to get all the loose dollars in town, and they do get them in the most uproariously funny series of events you have ever seen on the screen.

See this real comedy—it holds more laughs than "a bundle of monkeys."

The Boyer children had a narrow escape from serious injury one day last week when the car they were driving plunged through the railing at the bridge below Casey's hill. A service car from Ypsilanti was called to haul out the car. No one was hurt.

Mrs. Harry Morgan spent last Friday with her mother, Mrs. George Burrell, near Denton. She found her mother feeling much better than she has for some time. Remember the meeting Thursday afternoon, May 19, of the Free Church Ladies' Aid society at the Free church.

Mr. Clark, of Caro, is the new overseer at the Gotfredson farms. His wife is with him.

Fred Nollar has been having a rather severe attack of appendicitis but is able to be at work again.

Bill Raymond, who has worked for Fred Nollar so long, has gone to work for James Hanon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Colburn, Katherine and Ervin Michels, of Detroit, were Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Michels. Mr.

Michels returned to the city with them Sunday evening, where on Monday he expected to get a new Fordson tractor.

The addition of a coat of paint is making a great improvement in the appearance of Ed. Park's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, of Middleville, are the guests of their son, Harry, and family.

Carl Kuhl was the guest of his grandparents from Wednesday night until Friday night while he was in Ypsilanti for the eighth grade examinations.

Charlie Norwood came home Sunday to spend a few days with his parents and brother, Oren. His health is very poor this spring.

The closing of the Free Church school on Tuesday was celebrated by a picnic in the woods with the teacher, Mrs. Saida Dixon, was presented with a lovely linen table cloth and baking dish as a slight token of the high regard in which she is held. We hope she will come back for the next school year.

Sunday being Mothers' day, Mr. and Mrs. Dais J. Kuhl were given quite a surprise when Mrs. Kuhl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Van Buren, of Ypsilanti, and their daughters, Mrs. Thurman A. Walters, husband and two children, of Tuttle Hill, and Mrs. Frank E. Raymond, husband and little son, of Ypsilanti, drove in on Sunday morning with well-filled lunch baskets and spent the day with them.

Miss Beryl Kuhl, Carl Kuhl and Harley Shock were present also. A picnic dinner was served and all had a very enjoyable day.

Mrs. Arthur Mosher and little Aletha Whitley spent Friday in Ypsilanti with her sister, Mrs. Aletha Sprague. In the afternoon all visited the sixth grade of the Central high school and observed the methods used there in teaching. Le Roy Mosher, who was in town that day for the seventh grade examinations, was one of the party and enjoyed it very much.

There was a very small crowd at the dance Thursday evening at Mr. Benesh's as the night was extremely warm.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gale and son, Raymond, of Salem, were Sunday visitors at Harry Morgan's.

Arthur Mosher and family were in Ypsilanti Sunday to visit Mrs. Mosher's mother, Mrs. Wm. Heater.

We certainly will appreciate it very much if we are ever again able to use the telephone for getting in communication with the outside world and being able to collect some news.

Earl Knaggs has lost his man, Le Roy Davis, who worked for him the past winter.

Luis J. Kuhl and Harley Shock were in Ann Arbor Saturday morning on business.

Ed and Hiney Priebe spent Sunday evening with Carl Kuhl and Harley Shock.

Farmers are very busy now preparing the ground for corn planting. Mr. Pichison and family have moved to Ypsilanti and Harry Gillette and family, of Ypsilanti, are now working for Mr. E. L. Strang. Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kuhl and Miss Beryl Kuhl were Sunday evening callers at P. Michels'.

Frank Kraft is now driving a Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Trowbridge and children were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harrison and Mrs. Pankonie, of Inkster, and later called on relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Hix and Mr. and Mrs. E. Pettibone, at Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Sweitzer and daughters, Carrie and Margaret, were Friday evening visitors at Dr. Snow's at Northville.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson and children, of Ann Arbor, and George Robinson, of Dixboro, spent Sunday at Wm. Rooke's.

O. A. Trowbridge and wife and Russel Trowbridge and family were in Plymouth Friday evening to visit Mrs. Sackett.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sweitzer and daughters visited in Detroit Sunday.

Callers at R. Trowbridge's Sunday were Mr. Zimmerman and Mr. MacFarlane.

Mrs. Snow, of Northville, is expected to spend next week with her parents.

DENTON

The annual election of officers of the Epworth league was held at the home of Charles and Seth Arnold Friday evening. The following officers were elected: President, Earl Smith; first vice-president, Gertrude Burrell; second vice-president, Ruth Freeman; third vice-president, Marion Mott; fourth vice-president, Stanley Woods; secretary, Ruth Meyers; treasurer, Willie Smith; organist, Miss Florence Gerick; assistant organist, Clara Hutchins. After the business meeting ice cream and wafers were served.

The Junior league will give an ice cream social on the M. E. parsonage lawn Friday evening. Everyone come.

Mr. and Mrs. George Littlejohn, of Detroit, were Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wright Colby.

Mrs. Dr. Arnold spent Monday and Tuesday in Detroit.

Mrs. Robert Mason, of Detroit, spent Tuesday with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wall and family, of Detroit, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shearer and family spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Colby.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Schlicht, Edward and Cecil Shannon, of Detroit, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Schlicht Friday.

The committees for Children's day were appointed as follows: Program committee, Mrs. Amerine and Mrs. Van Tassel; music, Mrs. Wright Colby; decorations, John Padgett and Sunday school officers and teachers.

Lace Known to the Ancients.

Lace was known at Venice at an early period. It was not unknown to the Greeks and Romans. To protect the native article its importation into England was prohibited in 1483. All the countries of Europe produced beautiful lace.

Summer-Time Clothing Becomes a Necessity

As the warm days prophesy the return of summer we realize that we need certain new apparel to complete our hot weather wardrobe. What a pleasure then to be able to choose them from a carefully selected group of garments which were picked not only for the individuality and style which they possessed but for their particularly reasonable prices.

Dresses are of several different varieties—those for morning, sports, street, afternoon, and party wear. Morning and porch dresse are quaintly adorably conceived of soft crepes and gingham, colored to suit personal fancy. Sports or street costumes come in ratines, linens, and gingham, often flaunting a cape from bright hued shoulders. Afternoon and party affairs are whimsically fashioned of organdie, voile, or some of the heavier materials, including frischeen crepe.

msports skirts in white or color—in all popular materials—add greatly to any outfit with their fascinating fringed bottoms or gay plaids and stripes.

Suits and wraps so essential to a Michigan climate are being sold at a big reduction to make way for more stock. You will be pleased with our remarkable values.

The shoe that taught comfort to a million home women

CONTENTED FEET! To more than a million women this Martha Washington shoe has brought day-long relief to feet hot and wearied and aching from the endless round of household tasks.

Those women buy it not just once, but time and time again. Their strong favor has made it easily America's most popular comfort shoe. If you have never yet enjoyed the foot happiness that comes with the wearing of a real comfort shoe, by all means try this Martha Washington Princess model.

Just ask for the Martha Washington Princess. Note the easy flexibility of the sole, the rigid support under the arch, the solid comfort throughout.
There are many other Martha Washington her parents.

BELLEVILLE

The annual election of officers and appointment of teachers of the
M. E. Sunday school took place Tuesday evening of last week. The following were elected for the ensuing year: James C. Pullen, superintendent; H. C. Fry, assistant superintendent; Miss Gladys Cady, secretary; Mrs. Katherine Spring, treasurer. The teachers remained the same as the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor, of Romulus, were visitors of the latter's mother, Mrs. Helen Miller, Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Jennie Longcore, of Michigan avenue, was calling on her many friends in the village Saturday of last week.

Miss Leonard, of Detroit, was a guest of Mrs. Lena Osler Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Mary Sinclair, of Detroit, was a visitor at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Louise Crouch, Saturday of last week.

Mrs. W. S. Smith was called to Canada to attend the funeral of her uncle and is remaining for a visit with a brother and other relatives.

Mrs. Ora F. Thompson, aged 42 years, died at Ann Arbor hospital
Saturday evening at 10 o'clock.
Her remains were taken to her home on Tyler street during the early hours of Sunday. Mrs.
Thompson several weeks ago had an attack of plural pneumonia and never recovered from it and was taken to the hospital about a week before her death, where it was hoped an operation would bring about a speedy recovery. Funeral services were held from the residence Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, under the auspices of Belleville chapter No. 73, O. E. S., of which she was a member, ever displaying her willingness to do her part and always meeting the members with that happy smile and heartly handshake. Interment at Hillsdale cemetery, Belleville. The deceased is survived by her husband and daughter, Loma, and son, John, and father, George Dickson, of Ypsilanti, who with many relatives and friends mourn her loss.

"Sweet are the thoughts of her,
though she is gone."

Mrs. Irving Pettit, of Dundee, was a week-end visitor of her mother, Mrs. Mary Bush.

Mrs. Kate Clark and children and Miss Rose Chrysler, of Detroit, were visitors in the village Saturday of last week.

Sunday morning Mothers' day was observed at the M. E. church with appropriate exercises as follows: Piano solo, Miss Emily Clark;
God and Mother, Miss Margaret E.
Hope; solo, Miss Fern Shaphard;
The Song Mother Used to Sing,
Mrs. Cora A. Day; Solo, Miss Mildred Smith; "Mothers' Day," Mrs.
Reginald G. Atyeo; music by the orchestra trio, followed by a short discourse by Rev. W. S. Smith.

INFORMATION ON MARKETING

Department of Agriculture Publishes Bulletin Showing Monthly Trend of Prices.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Farsighted farmers get more money for their live stock and crops by following the law of average prices in the marketing of their products than do those who ignore the seasonal price fluctuations. In the past one of the chief difficulties confronting those who wished to profit by such information was that reliable figures which showed the monthly trend of prices for crops and live stock were not readily available. For that reason "Market Statistics," a 280-page bulletin published by the United States Department of Agriculture, should prove especially valuable. It was prepared by the bureau of markets and crop estimates.

In the case of hogs, for example, actual average prices are given for each of the last eleven years, month by month, for several of the more important market centers. Tables show the average monthly prices for the eleven years combined. The man who ships hogs to Chicago can find out from a table in this bulletin that the average December price is 9 per cent lower than the eleven-year average. The average September price is 8 per cent above the eleven-year average. When comparing September, the highest month, with December, the lowest month, it is seen that the September price for the eleven years is 19 per cent above the December price. With such information available one can often adjust his farm operations so as to get his stock ready for market during the months of average high prices. He may also see where it would be profitable to hold his crops for marketing in months of higher than average prices.

The bulletin gives such information for all classes of live stock, including hogs, cattle, sheep and their manufactured products. There are statistics of a similar nature pertaining to practically all crops which the average farmer has to sell. A study of the bulletin would call attention to markets receiving large quantities of such produce. By comparing prices at several markets one could reach a conclusion as to which generally pays the most attractive prices.

A book of this nature from a book publisher would cost $2 or $3, but it may be obtained at a cost of only 30 cents to cover the cost of printing from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The department has no copies for free distribution.

RATIONS FOR DRAFT HORSES

Brood Mares Require Much Greater Amount of Feed Than Geldings or Dry Mares.

The University of Missouri has been doing some experimental work with draft horses, brood mares and colts. Some of the results follow:

1. Brood mares may be used efficiently for farm work, but the yearly feed required by them is 26 per cent greater than the cost of feed required by geldings or dry mares doing the same work.

2. Brood mares working and nursing foals require 47 per cent more grain and 32 per cent more hay daily during the suckling period than dry mares.

3. Fifteen pounds of corn silage, eight pounds of oat straw, with eight pounds of grain is a satisfactory ration for horses doing light work during the winter months.

Sheep Convert Waste.

No animal approaches the sheep in converting weeds and waste into wool and mutton. There is a wealth of food and raiment in the wasted grass and weeds of barn lots, fields, and roadsides.

Lusty Pigs of Right Sort.

To get good lusty pigs of the right sort, you must begin with the grand-parents. Using poor sires is a short-sighted policy that produces poor feeders and plain fat hogs, not market topers.

SELL GRAIN THROUGH CATTLE

Farmer Who Puts Feed Into Steers and Returns Manure to Land is One Who Succeeds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An investigation into methods and costs of beef production in the corn belt, conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, covering three years, and 906 farms, shows interesting facts concerning the present status of the industry. The man who feeds cattle is marketing his crops as he feeds them, and, therefore, is justified in expecting a return equivalent to average market prices for the feeds. Even if he sometimes falls short of a return he has not necessarily experienced a loss. The corn belt farmer who sells grain sometimes receives more for his crop than the one who feeds it to cattle, but on the average, for a period of years, except in certain limited areas, the man who puts the feed into steers and returns the manure to the land is the one who comes out ahead. The conclusion is based on feeding in Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska and Missouri.

The figures which contain the results of this investigation were obtained from a large number of farms and from several agricultural experiment stations in the Middle West. One phase of the work deals with the cost of maintaining a herd of breeding cows for producing feeder cattle. It was found that feed represented 69 per cent of the cost of keeping a cow for one year, while the other 31 per cent was for interest, labor, equipment and incidentals.

SWINE FOR HOME SLAUGHTER

Members of Shipping Association in Indiana Solve Problem of Having Pork Supply.

Members of the live stock shipping associations in Dekalb county, Ind., have solved the problem of having fat hogs on hand just when they are ready to do their home butchering, and the United States Department of Agriculture thinks the plan could be worked by other co-operatives. Many of the members of the association who do home butchering often found themselves with hogs ready for market or slaughter before the farmers were prepared for the work. Under these conditions they arrange with the manager of the association to ship their hogs to market at the time the animals are ready, and later, when the farmers are prepared to butcher, they buy the desired number of hogs from the association on the regular shipping day. The hogs are sold to them for the net market price returned to the members contributing hogs to the shipment. This practice is an accommodation to the members, as often a farmer who is raising hogs for home slaughter is not ready to butcher at the time the hogs are in best condition, and he is not prepared to feed them as long as he desires.

KING CORN DISCOVERS RIVAL

Experiments at Nebraska University Show Dried Sugar Beet Pulp is Valuable Feed.

Dried sugar-beet pulp will soon become a real rival of corn in livestock feeding, declares the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

This statement is based on an experiment conducted by the college during which different rations were fed 12 lots of Utah lambs, 31 to each lot for 100 days, to determine the food value of the sugar-beet by-product in comparison with some of the standard rations, such as corn and alfalfa or corn, alfalfa, and cottonseed cake.

The beet-pulp-fed lambs led with a profit of $3.80 per head at the end of the period, while the corn-and-alfalfa-fed lot showed a profit of only $1.83 a head. The experiment proved furthermore, that either corn or dried beet pulp is necessary to produce a finished lamb.

Hog Harvesting Time.

Farrowing time is harvest time in the hog business. Success at this time means live pigs that will quickly grow into cash; failure means dead pigs that will grow into an entry on the wrong side of the ledger.

Clip Horses Before Spring.

Clipping is a practice that should be more universally adopted than it is, for it is an excellent thing for the work horse that has been idle the greater part of the winter and is put to heavy work during the spring.

SYSTEM OF HOG SANITATION

Methods Developed by Department of Agriculture Require Little Extra Attention.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Methods developed by the United States Department of Agriculture for raising hogs free of worms have proved so successful wherever they have been given a trial, as in McLean county, Ill., that the department feels no hesitancy in recommending them to all hog raisers in the great corn-producing areas of the Middle West.

The system recommended by the department is simple, practically the only requirements being a little extra care and labor. Just before the farrowing season it is necessary to clean the farrowing pens thoroughly with hot water and lye, and before the sows are put in all dirt is carefully washed from their skins. Within two weeks after farrowing the sows and litters which have not been allowed out of the pens, are moved to a clean pasture—one that has not held hogs since cultivation. The young pigs, in order to get a good start without worms, must be kept on clean pasture away from wormy hog yards without contact with other hogs, except the mothers, for at least four months, after which they are past the greatest danger from worms. To be sure, it is necessary to provide proper feed, water, and shelter, but that is what any pig should have.

Experience has shown that there are four good reasons why this swine sanitation plan means money to the farmer. In the first place, pigs without worms grow to greater size and make more gain for the same quantity of feed than those that must use a part of their feed to grow an army of worms. It has been shown also that when those parasites are kept under control fewer young pigs are lost from thumps. Pigs that are not weakened by the broods of worms are, as a rule, less susceptible to the various diseases that are common to them. And Young Pigs, Particularly, Should Have Clean Pens.

Finally, the quality of the pork produced by clean, healthy pigs is better than that from wormy, unthrifty ones. Veterinarians in the department say that pigs infested with worms seem noticeably more susceptible to mange, necrobacillosis, and possibly other diseases, also, than those that are free of them. Both lots of pigs in the government exhibit at the recent International Live Stock exposition were infested with mange mites, but the worm-free pigs seemed to be highly resistant to their attacks, and in contrast with the wormy pigs showed little evidence of worry by the mites.

All swine raisers in the corn belt should find it profitable to adopt this system of swine sanitation, but breeders of purebred hogs should find it particularly advantageous, for a little gain in size and appearance makes a big difference in the show ring and in the sale ring.

HORSES ARE SOFT IN SPRING

Muscles About Neck and Shoulders Are Full and Plump—Collars Will Need Adjusting.

Most farm horses are at least moderately fat in the spring. In this condition the muscles about the neck and shoulders will be full and plump and it will take a rather large collar to fit. The soft condition of the horses, however, coupled with the long days of hard work, causes them to shrink in flesh rapidly, and a collar that was a good fit at the beginning of the season may be entirely unsatisfactory three or four weeks later. In some cases the collar can be made to fit by using a sweat pad, while in others a new or different collar will be required. It is better, however, to have collars that fit than to use sweat pads.

Make Sows Exercise.

Whole oats scattered on a close floor are fine to feed sows and keep them up and exercising a portion of the day which gives them vigor and more strength to withstand the ordeal of farrowing.

No Cure for Scours.

There is no sure cure for scours in calves. It is another case of the old saying that "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." The main thing is to so handle the calves that scours will not appear.

ERADICATE MITES AND LICE

Two Principal Kinds of External Parasites Are Injurious to All Classes of Hogs.

Lice and mange mites are the two principal kinds of external parasites affecting hogs, say experts of the United States Department of Agriculture. They are injurious to all classes of hogs, but the greatest losses occur in pigs and poorly nourished hogs kept in unsanitary quarters.

The losses are caused by irritation, unthrifty condition, functional disturbances, arrested growth, low vitality, and increased death rate.

Only one species of lice commonly affects hogs, and this parasite obtains its food by puncturing the skin of the hog and sucking blood. It can be eradicated by hand application, spraying, medicated hog wallows, and dipping. Dipping is the best method of applying treatment. Crude petroleum and tar creosote dips are effective remedies.

Two species of mange mites commonly affect hogs. The nature and habits of these mites, the symptoms caused by each species, and the methods of control and eradication are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1085, Hog Lice and Mange, Methods of Control and Eradication, issued by the department, and sent free on request. Crude petroleum and lime sulphur dips are effective remedies for common or sarcoptic mange of hogs.

Plans for hog wallows and dipping plants, together with directions for building them and for dipping hogs are given in the bulletin.

FEED BROOD SOWS PROTEINS

When Pasture Is Not Available Alfalfa Hay, Wheat Shorts or Tankage, Are Essential.

Brood sows should have feed that is rich in proteins, such as alfalfa hay, wheat shorts or tankage, when pasture is not available. The greatest development of the unborn pig takes place during the last 60 days of the gestation period, hence the importance of feeding brood sows from now until farrowing time.

FEED BROOD SOW LIBERALLY

Animal Should Be Provided With Clean, Comfortable Quarters—Watch for Parasites.

Feed the suckling sow liberally; provide her with clean, comfortable quarters, and get her and the pigs on pasture as soon as possible. Watch the pigs carefully for signs of disease or parasites. A little attention now to insure a good start for the litter will result in many additional pounds of pork next fall.

Corn Best for Fattening.

No other food equals corn in the fattening of pigs, and some farmers feed too much corn. Alfalfa or clover hay may be fed with profit.

Pig Yard Free From Mud.

Care should be taken to provide a pig yard as free from mud as possible.

Building Up Sows.

Sows thin in flesh should have their feed gradually increased so as to be in good condition before farrowing.

STORIES OF GREAT INDIANS

By Elmo Scott Watson

PHILIP OF POKANOKET, "TERROR OF NEW ENGLAND"

SHOULD the apologist for the Indian try to justify the red man's cruelty by citing cases of white barbarity, he need only refer to the case of King Philip of Pokanoket, chief of the Wampanoags. When he was killed the colonists treated his body as though it were the carcass of a wild beast. They beheaded and quartered him. They exhibited the head on a gibbet at Plymouth for 20 years and they nailed the quarters on trees. One of his hands, mutilated by a bursting pistol, was given to Alderman, his slayer.

King Philip (Metacombet) was the second son of friendly old Massasoit but he had no love for the white men. He saw that unless their expansion was stopped his own race was doomed. So he began uniting the tribes of New England against them. The colonists suspected that he was preparing for war but he succeeded in deceiving them until June, 1675, when his warriors, contrary to his orders, attacked Swansea, Mass. Concealment being no longer possible, Philip plunged into the conflict with savage fury. The next three months his warriors and their allies, the Narragansetts, destroyed 12 of the 90 towns in New England.

The "Terror of New England" reached the peak of his career at the Battle of Bloody Brook near Deerfield where he killed 90 colonists. After that the star of the Wampanoag began to wane. Wampanoag, his sister-in-law, the "Saw Sachem of Pocasset," who had led 300 warriors into the field to aid Philip, was killed by the colonists who cut off her head and set it up on a pole at Taunton, Mass. Then the chief's wife and son were captured and sold into slavery in the West Indies. "My heart breaks now, I am ready to die," said the great chief.

By now he, with only a few faithful followers, was fleeing from place to place like a hunted wild animal. One of his warriors suggested surrender and Philip instantly killed him with one blow of his tomahawk. Alderman, the slain warrior's brother, immediately deserted to the English and offered to lead Captain Church to Philip's hiding place.

On August 12, 1676, the English surrounded the swamp where the Wampanoag had taken refuge. As they closed in they sighted their quarry speeding along a path, one of the few avenues of escape from the swamp. Suddenly Alderman rose up before the fleeing chief. He fired and King Philip fell with two wounds in his breast. Alderman's gun had been double charged—one bullet for his brother and one for himself!

PARENT-TEACHERS MEET AT PROSPECT SCHOOL

The last meeting of the Prospect Parent-Teachers' club for this school year was held Monday evening. The following officers were elected: President, M. B. Stadtmiller; first vice-president, Mrs. George Rawlinson; second vice-president, Mrs. T. Bauer; secretary and treasurer, Miss Lillian Campbell.

Mrs. Rawlinson gave a very interesting report of the state convention of the Parent-Teachers' association at Port Huron.

A report was given regarding the children's milk for forenoon lunch at school. The Parent-Teachers' club stood back of the project when it was first decided to give the children milk, but up to this time have not had to furnish any money. The Junior Bridge club donated once to the milk fund for undernourished children.

The music of the evening consisted of a violin solo by Henry Kling and songs by the first, fourth and fifth grades. Miss Phoebe Sherman gave a solo dance. Prof. Theo. W. H. Irion, of the Normal college, spoke on "Likes and Dislikes." He told all about the things we like and dislike naturally, and then the things we learn to like and dislike. He said we should get the child to like the right things, such as truthfulness, honesty, courtesy and consideration for others. These should be the fundamental likes and should become habitual. The important education of the child is in the home. Parents should never expect the school to supply the fundamental likes.

Ice cream and home-made cakes were served at the close of the program. Mrs. George Moghous acted as chairman of the refreshment committee.

PAIR ARRESTED FOR STEALING CAR.

Fay Union and Gilbert Evans were arrested Monday evening in Superior township by Deputy Sheriff Elliott and Chief of Police Connors. Evans is a resident of Ohio and has been working for a farmer in Superior near the home of Fay Union. The pair are accused of conspiring with Sam Goldberg, of Canton, Ohio, and are accused with stealing Goldberg's car so that he could get the insurance on it. They were taken to the county jail at Ann Arbor, where they are being held for Ohio officers.

Problem in Criticism.

Criticism presents to the creator a problem which is never solved. Criticism is, to the artist, a perpetual presence; or perhaps a ghost which he will not succeed in laying. If he could satisfy his mind that criticism was a certain thing, a good thing or a bad, a proper presence or an irrelevant, he might psychologically dispose of it. But he cannot.—Waldo Frank.

But it is being done today on every cow-owner's place where an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator is being used, or where the farmer is skimming by the wasteful "gravity" method.

And it's a wholly unnecessary waste, too. Because a De Laval Cream Separator will soon save enough cream to pay for itself, and put a stop to all the waste of cream and time and labor for many years to come.

Have you had your separator tested lately?

Call us up and we will bring out a new De Laval and run your skim-milk through it. We know that in many instances the new De Laval will get cream out of the skim-milk.

We will be very glad to make such test free of charge.

Sooner or later you will use a

DOES YOUR COMPLEXION RIVAL THE ROSE'S?

A pretty girl should look her best in the morning—awakening with flower-like freshness of complexion, welcoming the revelations of searching sunshine.

Such charm is not necessarily a gift of nature, but the result of knowing what your skin needs—of giving it the intelligent daily care which makes it bloom with health.

The secret is a thorough cleansing every day to remove all dirt, surplus cold cream, rouge and powder. This can only be done with soap.

The soap must be mild, balmy and soothing in its action. Palmolive is such a soap. It is the scientific blend of Palm and Olive oils, the cosmetic cleansers of Cleopatra.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first class groceries and drug stores.

Storm Country Polly

"Well, I know it; of course I know it," retorted Evelyn, resenting the censure in the other's tones; "but I've got to be free. I'm so frantic, I don't much care how. That's the way Oscar's got to help me! Anyway make him understand he's got to wait; he must be quiet and not bother me. Then come tonight, and let me know what he says. Will you, Polly?"

The squatter girl nodded. She would rather have been switched than see Oscar Bennett again.

"Yep," she assented. "I'll hunt him up late this afternoon and then hustle right over to you. I got to go now!"

For some moments after Evelyn left her, Polly watched the slim figure on the path to the woods. Then she suddenly remembered Marcus MacKenzie and without a backward glance hurried swiftly toward the south.

Meantime three squatters from the Silent City were in the Bad Man's ravine, dressing the fish they had netted the night before. One enormous man was seated on a flat rock, his bare feet almost touching the water as it hurried by to the lake. On his shoulders, with his legs wound tightly around the man's neck, sat a small boy, little more than a baby. He was shivering with cold, and as the spring rain shot its drops upon his face, he lifted a small hand and brushed them away. Seemingly oblivious of the weight against his swarthy head, the man picked up a fish and contemplated it with a scowl. Then he proceeded to clean it deftly.

The silence was unbroken for a long time except by the rushing of the water, the gruesome running of the knives over the fish scales and a little whimper now and then, from the child astride the man's neck.

"I heard in town," broke forth Lye Braeger, "that Old Marc MacKenzie's comin' home. Here's where us squatters get h—l! Hung at us good and plenty!"

Jeremiah Hopkins stopped his work and frowned at the speaker.

"He'd best be a-lookin' out for hisself," he muttered. "Mebbe he'll get a taste of the hot place if he does any struttin' around the Silent City."

"Mebbe," repeated Larry Bishop, and no more. Marcus MacKenzie, handsome, smug and rich, had been the instrument that had moved the hands of the law to swing open the prison doors and shove Larry Bishop inside just when his young wife needed him most.

Once in sight of the roaring water, rushing in torrents from the Bad Man's ravine, Polly sent out a peculiar little trill; and the hoarse answer of a man's voice mingled with its echo as it struck the enormous, up-roaring rock slabs.

Polly's heart bounded and lost its heavy weight of fear. Daddy Hopkins had responded ponderously to her first call. In another moment she was crawling up the jagged sides of the deep gulf. As she came up to them, Hopkins' companions waved her a greeting, but stopped their work at the sight of her sober face.

"What's up, lassie?" demanded Hopkins. "You ain't seen a ghost, have you?"

"Worser'n that, Daddy," she replied. "Much worser'n that! Old Marc's home, an' I heard him say he's goin' to root us squatters out of the Silent City."

A brute-like glare flashed into Larry Bishop's eyes.

"Did he, now, brat?" he muttered, taking up his knife and looking at it.

Polly squatted down beside her father, slipping one hand under his arm. The other she gave to the child, who grasped it eagerly.

"Did he, now?" came in repetition from Bishop's throat.

"Yep," asserted Pollyop, with an emphatic bob of her head, "an' I come to tell you all you'd best be a-lookin' out for 'im. Daddy, he says you're the worst man in the settlement, but everybody knows he's a liar."

"He'd best be lookin' out for his own hide," Hopkins shot back like a flash of steel. "I ain't in any mind to stand much of his guff, the dirty duffer."

Withdrawing her arm from her father's, she leaned her chin on her hand. She wanted to urge them not to worry too much, to tell them of the other man, rich like old Marc, who had expressed in tender tones a kindly interest in their welfare. Somehow, though, the words would not come. The peaceful figure did not fit in with the secret understanding that expressed itself in the frowning, furtive glances that passed from one to the other of her men-folks.

"He's awful, powerful strong," she ventured in answer to the look she had intercepted, "an' powerful rich!"

"An' money's what makes the mare go," struck in Lye Braeger.

"Sure, so 'tis," answered Polly. "But 'tain't everything in the world. I got

"Up in that box," he snapped. "Then tell what you came for! What'd Eve say?"

"Your woman sent word by me," she began—

"Tell it, and don't be all day about it," ordered the farmer.

Pollyop took a couple of steps backward toward the door, ready to fly if Oscar showed any signs of unusual wrath.

"She said you wasn't to write her any more letters," she replied. "She's awful scared. She trembled all over when she told me."

"What did she say about money?" Bennett demanded gruffly.

Through the dim light of the lantern, Polly looked at him pleadingly. "She just can't get another cent," she returned, "an' she's feelin' terrible bad about it."

Although he had not finished his task, Bennett jumped up from his stool, and one step took him very close to the nervous young speaker.

"She can't, eh?" he cried. "She means she won't, I guess. By God, she will, or I'll come out with the whole thing. You go and tell her so. She's got rich folks, and I didn't marry her to keep quiet all my life. Tell her either she comes home here to me, or she pays up. If she pays—" he paused, then laughed. "Oh, you needn't look as if I was goin' to swat you one, Pollyop," he went on, "but as I was sayin', if she pays up and I get rid of her, then—me for you, Polly Hopkins."

His voice was harsh, and his manners rough. Polly retreated to the threshold.

"The time's here," Oscar went on, "when both you women will be leaping to my aid. There! Get home and say to my lady just what I said—" again he broke off, only to continue, "leaving out the part about you. See, Pollyop?"

Dumb with dread, Polly sagged weakly against the door casing. No wonder Evelyn Robertson didn't want to live with such a man!

"And you can tell her to come to-night at nine o'clock, to Granny Hope's old shack," he proceeded. "I want to talk to her. Now get along and don't come around after any more milk, or I'll throw you out of the barn."

Glad to be gone, Polly passed out to the lane. In a little ravine at her left a noisy stream rumbled down the hill. With wistful eyes she watched it through the fast gathering dusk flow away to the lake. It was then she saw something moving about in a small pool of water in a rock basin. Carefully she put the milk and eggs on a bit of smooth turf. Down the bank she slipped, and there in the falling gloom, struggling in the water, was a baby-lamb. Pollyop tucked her skirts up about her waist and waded into the water. Several times she fell, and dripping wet, scrambled up again. When she pulled the lamb to the bank, she dropped to the ground, gasping for breath.

"Poor little duffer," she murmured. "You was 'most gone, wasn't you? Come on home with Pollyop an' get loved up a bit!"

In the road she picked up the pail, slipped the eggs into the milk and went swiftly down the lane, the lamb under one arm. Polly's heart sang with gladness. Out of the rigors of the Storm country, out of the cold ravine water, she had found another little thing to care for.

Jeremiah Hopkins and Larry Bishop were in the shack when Polly arrived with her burdens. With much pride she displayed the lamb; then she fed him a portion of the milk with a spoon. While she was preparing the evening meal, she invited her father's friend to take potluck with them.

After supper she settled her family. Wee Jerry she tucked into Daddy's bed, and Granny Hope was made comfortable in a chair by the stove, where she soon nodded off to sleep. Then the lamb in her lap and the billy goat at her knee, Pollyop sat down on the edge of her cot, facing the two men. She knew by the dark expressions on their faces that a question of import had come up.

"Me an' Larry, brat, have been tryin' to think of some way of gettin' rid of Old Marc," began Hopkins grimly. "Nervous brown fingers plucked at the lamb's wool as Polly, going white, stared at her father."

"You don't mean kurtin' him, Daddy dear, do you?" she broke out. "Oh, if that's what you're talkin' about, don't do it. Don't do it, Daddy! Somethin' beautiful is goin' to happen to us squatters. God up in the sky sent an angel smack down from high heaven to help us."

The serious, lovely face turned pleadingly, truthfully up to his prevented Hopkins from indulging his desire to laugh. Polly turned and looked at Larry. His dark face was heavy with frown and deep, grief-cut lines.

"There ain't any angels anywhere but up there," muttered Larry Bishop, making an upward thrust with his thumb.

"Yep, there is, Larry," contradicted Polly impetuously. "I seen one. He's bigger'n you an' Daddy put together, I guess; an' his face looks like the sun, all shiny an' bright. He says the squatters has to have a place to live in just like other folks, an' he won't let Old Marc run us out of the Silent City. Mebbe after a while, when he gets to workin' for us, you can hunt an' fish just the same as ever!"

Hopkins looked at his daughter as if she had lost her mind.

"What's eatin' you, brat?" he grunted.

"Nothin'," replied Polly, "but I know what I heard."

"Spel it out to us," put in Bishop eagerly.

Then Polly told them. Both men laughed.

"Why, he's got more money'n Old Marc, Polly," snapped Hopkins. "It's just because we don't happen to be settin' on his ground that he ain't wantin' us off."

It was quite evident that both the fishermen were of one opinion. Polly got up and placed the lamb in a corner of the wood-box.

"I bet a eel he helps us squatters, though," she nodded positively. "An' you both got to promise right now on this," she picked up Granny Hope's Bible, "that you won't use a gun on Marc MacKenzie, nor do nothin' harmful to him. Let the other man look after us. There! Kiss this here book an' you'll both feel better."

There was something compelling about the girl. It may have been the tones of her voice, wonderfully sweet and tremendously earnest. It may have been the brilliant smile she flashed upon her listeners. At any rate, the mayor of the Silent City and Larry Bishop, his henchman, repeated in dull apathy the oath she dictated to them, the words that made the Storm country a safe habitation for Marcus MacKenzie. Then both men reverently kissed the Bible and fell back limply in their chairs.

Polly kissed the ragged edges of the book too, then she turned to Hopkins.

"Daddy, honey, I'm goin' out. Give your kid a lovin' smack. I'll be back quicker'n the billy goat can blink."

for it on the mesa he had suggested. She rounded the building and went into the cow stables. On a nail in the wall hung a lantern, and the farmer sat milking a cow.

"Hello, Oscar!" was her greeting. "I saw Miss Eve, but I didn't tell her nothin' about the kisses you wanted."

Bennett turned and studied her curiously, taking quick stock of her, even to the brown of her bare feet. No, he had not made a mistake in summing her up that morning.

"You better hadn't," he growled, without interrupting his work. "I suppose you brought me some fool message from her, eh?" Having finished the cow, he rose and stood with the brimming pail of milk in his hand. "She sent you, didn't she?"

Polly hesitated a moment, coughed and cleared her throat.

"A little milk for Jerry, please," she suggested, extending her can.

Bennett snatched it from her hand. "Good God, you squatters're nothing but beggars," he grumbled, but because he was eager to get her message, he filled the pail full. Smilingly Polly took it back.

"I'm thankin' you, Oscar," she gurgled, "an' now mebbe a fresh egg for Granny Hope?"

He made an angry motion with his hand.

"Up in that box," he snapped. "Then tell what you came for! What'd Eve say?"

Fordson TRACTOR

"Yes I've more Time for Myself Since I Got a Fordson"

The Fordson Tractor is taking much of the drudgery out of farm life; it is solving the labor problem; it is reducing the cost of preparing land by almost one half of what it was with horses; and it is saving one third to one half of the farmer's time; and making farm life more attractive.

The Fordson will run your threshing machine—and at the most opportune time for you. It will operate the milking machines, saw your wood, fill your silo, pump the water, and take care of every kind of belt work—And don't forget—it will plow six to eight acres in a ten hour day, handling two plows with ease.

Thus the Fordson is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways.

There's a big story to tell you about the Fordson—and a true one—come in and get the facts. Or, if you prefer, telephone or drop us a card and we will bring them to you.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downer attended the Farmers' club at the home of Avery Downer at Geddes Wednesday.

Millard Fletcher and family, of Ann Arbor, called on Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Gridley Sunday.

Mrs. Ella Hodges, of Ypsilanti, was the guest of Mrs. Charles Campbell at luncheon Sunday night. Miss Ethel Muller, of Ypsilanti, was the guest of Mrs. Charles Campbell at dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dunton, of Ann Arbor, called on Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Youngs Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Fletcher have returned to Kingsville-on-the-Lake, Ont., after spending a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Henry Owen.

The little Misses Erva Williams, De Ette Alderman, Dorothy Rowe and Elizabeth Schultz, the four little girls comprising the sixth grade in the Model school, were entertained over night Thursday at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Leo Salaske.

Recent letters from Mrs. Rhoda Derbyshire report her as feeling very well at present. She is with friends in Carthage, Ind.

Harry Stoltz, of Waldron, was the guest of Claude Gotts Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gotts and children and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Draper spent Sunday in Northville. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Beyer and children, of Detroit, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Darling at supper Sunday night.

Mrs. Robert Fell and daughters May and Patricia, of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. John Waters and son, Stanley, and daughter, Gertrude, of Ypsilanti, were among those from away who attended Friends church Sunday.

Mrs. J. C. Tuttle, Mrs. D. R. Darling, Mrs. Louise Youngs and Mrs. Wallace Draper attended the meeting of the "Do What You Can" circle of King's Daughters at Mrs. Schleight on Prospect street Saturday afternoon.

Evelyn Smith, Clare Fuller, Katherine Schneider, Alton Ballard, Robert Towler, Fred Norton were among those from this vicinity who took the county examinations Thursday and Friday.

Nine pupils from the Model school, Herbert and Hulda Blosser, Howard Santure, Edward Hoyt, Dorothy Monk and John Schultz, of the eighth grade, and Doris and Dorothy Alderman and Elmo Williams, of the seventh grade, attended the examinations at the high school, Ypsilanti, Thursday and Friday.

Walter Frisbie and son, Homer, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Frisbie, of Milan, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fuller Sunday.

The American Legion Auxiliary society will attend memorial services at the Baptist church in a body. A social meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Johnston, of Emmet street, Wednesday afternoon, May 17, was planned for. Several plans for service were discussed and will be taken up later. The question of a quilt left from the Christmas fair came up and as it was the joint property of the A. L. A. and the Signal Corps Auxiliary it was decided to abide by their decision in regard to presenting it to Rev. Krum. Reports were made of needy ex-service men who have come to Ypsilanti seeking work and have been cared for by Rev. Krum. The need of a permanent headquarters for the two organizations was presented. The next meeting of the society will be held at the regular time and place May 26 at G. A. R. hall. All women eligible to membership who are not already members are earnestly invited to join.

The series of meetings at the friends church closed Sunday night. Rev. Claude Roane is a fine speaker, holding his audience to the last with an attention and interest that was evidence of his convincing talk. He preached the Bible truths clearly and forcefully. His topic the last meeting was "The Man Who Had One Opportunity—and Lost It." He read the last part of the 24th chapter of Acts and took his text from the last part of the 25th verse. Mr. Roane goes to his home at Portsmouth, Va., for a four days' stay and will then be in charge of a series of meetings at Newport News.

Mrs. Joseph Cunningham was the week-end guest of Detroit friends.

Jacob Schautenhelm has his corn and late potatoes planted. Several others have the corn ground nearly ready, while some have still a good bit of plowing to do.

The Rawsonville Pleasure club met at the hall Friday evening. A good program was given, opened by all singing America. Readings were given by Mrs. Jennie Laffin, Mrs. Mina Anderson, Lawrence Rogers and Henry Owen. The Misses Stella Susterka and May Wright gave a dialogue and Roy McCartney and Ben Owen a monologue; Mrs. Corkins sang. A group of farmerettes, with the implements of their calling, created a good lot of fun and their short recitations were all to the point.

Mrs. M. G. Day and daughter, Imabelle, and their guest, Mrs. Nora Guy, of Milan, called on Mrs. Charles Campbell Monday.

John Youngs and Will Youngs, of Ypsilanti, and Eldredge Bunton and Miss Ruth Kennewell, of Highland Park, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Youngs Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell were Ann Arbor visitors Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Owen and Mrs. J. D. Rust were in Belleville Wednesday to attend the meeting of the Ladies' Aid. They report a good meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Russell and children were Sunday evening callers at the home of their brother, Carl Gotts.

Earl Gotts took Dr. Zeidler's place in the Tyler street church on recent Sunday evening and gave an inspiring talk. Mr. Gotts has had some training at Cleveland Bible institute and later was attending high school, taking preparatory work to enter Albion college, when the death of his mother interrupted his studies for a time. He is planning to enter the ministry as his life work.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rust and Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Seamans Sunday evening.

"Dinna forget" May 27 is clean up day at Udell cemetery.

SERUM WILL PROTECT SWINE

Erroneous Impression Prevails That Hog Cholera Will Be Eradicated in Few Years.

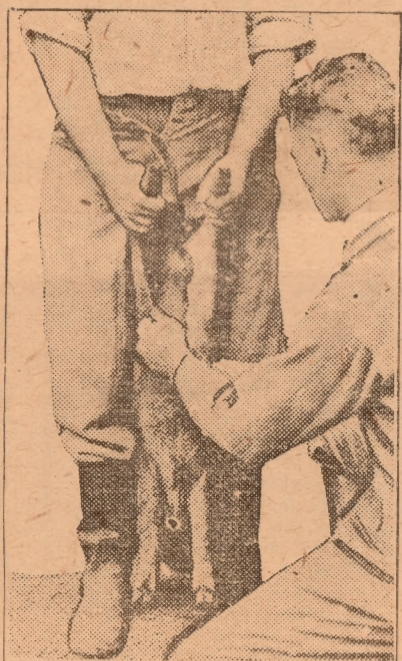

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The impression that hog cholera is a disease that will be eliminated before many years through the use of anti-hog-cholera serum has been spread throughout the country, but there is little ground for such a belief, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The serum treatment, when properly given, will protect hogs against the disease, but it does not go to the source and eliminate the germs from the country, which would be necessary if hog cholera is to become a thing of the past. It might be possible to eliminate the disease if every hog in the United States could be kept immunized all of the time, but such a measure would be impractical, if not impossible.

Hog cholera is of varying prevalence, both as to the time of the year and as to periods of several years. In the fall—October and November—there is more of this disease than in the other months. The number of hogs per thousand affected by it changes greatly from year to year. Also, there have been years, such as 1887, 1897 and 1913, when cholera raged throughout the corn belt, causing great losses to farmers. In the years intervening between these high points the losses were relatively low.

Since 1913 hog cholera has been but slightly prevalent as compared with the worst years, but there is no assurance that other great waves of the disease will not occur as they did before serum was used. It has been but eight years since the last high-point in losses from cholera, and the records of the Department of Agriculture show that the period between the high points of prevalence is usually 10 years or longer.

This fall there are reports of increased losses from cholera, but some increase is to be expected every fall.

Farmer Should Immunize Every Hog on First Suspicion of Cholera.

The fact that farm products have brought smaller returns in recent months has no doubt caused less serum to be bought, and many farmers have lost their herds when they might have saved them. Perhaps they could not have prevented the occurrence of the disease, but they could have prevented the hogs from dying of it.

Getting rid of hog cholera is not a simple matter, which may be appreciated when it is remembered that the infection has been carried to all parts of the United States and that the ways in which it spreads are probably not all thoroughly known. It may be many a long year before this plague of the swine industry is eliminated. The best thing to be done now is for each farmer to keep close watch over his herd, and on the first suspicion of the disease immunize every hog.

Some men now consider immunization against hog cholera as one of the regular expenses of pork production and have it done every year. They realize that it is not a cure, but only a prevention against loss. Even when serum is used there is sometimes a loss, but in nearly all cases the method is very successful. It is the only dependable means available for preventing losses from hog cholera.

Easy to Make Runts.

It is easy to make runts out of well bred pigs by not feeding the sow well. A brood sow should receive, therefore, all the concentrates she will clean up as soon as the pigs are in, so as to take the milk.

Balanced Feed for Fattening.

Corn alone is excellent for fattening cattle. Add to it, say, 10 to 20 per cent of its weight in linseed meal, cottonseed meal or tankage, and you get a ration that is still better balanced. Or feed the corn with oats and alfalfa, instead of all corn stalks and other roughage.

Time to Buy Sheep.

The present price of wool and mutton is so far out of proportion to the present price of sheep that it looks like now is the time to buy sheep.

MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION.

More than three score years have passed since our fathers took up arms in defense of the Union. That was the primary purpose of the Civil war, to preserve the Union, but as the war progressed it became more and more apparent that slavery must be killed. It has fastened itself upon us; it grew with our growth; it strengthened with our strength; but when at last it lifted its mailed fist to strike a blow at the nation's life, then the nation armed itself to save itself and for liberty as well; and when the four years of agony were over a new witness to human brotherhood went forth from these shores and the light shed all around the globe. Some of those who took part in this great conflict are among us yet, though a fast diminishing company.

For many years it has been the custom of our people to go out on Memorial day and place flowers on the graves of those veterans of the Civil war who have passed on, and with appropriate public exercises to show respect and honor to those who are still with us. May the Republic never cease to commemorate the heroic achievement of the men who freely offered their lives for the nation might live.

In the Spanish-American war and in the recent World war the sons and grandsons of those who fought at Shiloh and Gettysburg fully maintained the honor of America.

Therefore, in order that we may pay a tribute of respect and affection to the surviving veterans of all these wars, and do honor to the memory of their fallen comrades, I sincerely urge that Tuesday, the thirtieth day of May, 1922, be fittingly observed as Memorial day, and I earnestly appeal to the people of Michigan for hearty co-operation in plans for the proper observance of the day in their respective communities. The comfort and convenience of the old soldiers will, I am sure, be the first care of those in charge of the arrangements.

On Memorial day flags should be displayed at half-staff until noon and then hoisted to the top of the staff.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the state this seventeenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, and of the commonwealth the eighty-sixth.

ALEX. J. GROESBECK, Governor.

CHARLES J. DELAND,

ATTEND BAPTIST CONVENTION.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Deake, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Howe, Mrs. Jennie Fletcher, Miss Lulu Dean attended the Baptist convention held at Jackson the latter part of last week. There were upwards of 800 delegates in attendance.

On Saturday there were 13 of the B. Y. P. U. or Students' association of the local church in attendance.

Speakers from the east and west were present and topics and matters were as various throughout the entire program of the convention.

The work from the assistance necessary for the 39 Negro Baptist churches of Detroit, which is a new item in the state work, to the discussion of "Fundamentalism" and the adoption of a creed for Baptists occupied what little time was given to open discussion of plans and methods.

Emphasis is to be placed upon evangelism, but all educational programs are to be pushed as well.

The Baptist summer assembly will be held again at Kalamazoo college. The feature of the state work is becoming a large and progressive work.

The Northern Baptist convention meets June 14-20 at Indianapolis, Ind.

YPSILANTI'S SLOGAN.

The Ypsilanti Business and Professional club has adopted as a slogan for Ypsilanti for the week commencing May 18 "Ypsilanti is named for General Ypsilanti of Greece." They are asking that all letters written during this week bear this slogan.

Another lady said the other day she thought the new hotel should be named "Hotel Demetrius" in honor of General Ypsilanti, as this was his first name.
